Chad,

I understand that you spoke with my associate, Alan Tannenwald, last Friday evening about the status of CedarCrestone's response to Oracle's third-party subpoena in the Oracle USA, Inc., et al. v. Rimini Street, Inc., et al. matter and wanted to follow up with you now that I am back in the office.

As Alan explained to you, CedarCrestone is prepared to produce additional documents in response to Oracle's subpoena by on or about July 1, 2011. In addition to that production and CedarCrestone's March 24, 2011 and May 19, 2011 productions of documents in response to Oracle's subpoena, CedarCrestone will be able to produce another set of responsive documents if Oracle signs the attached Supplemental Stipulation of Confidentiality. CedarCrestone has asked defendants Rimini Street and Seth Ravin to execute the same agreement in order to receive documents which are responsive to their subpoena in this matter.

The Supplemental Stipulation of Confidentiality is designed to supplement the Stipulated Protective Order (the "Order") on file in this case and close any potential loopholes in the Order which would threaten CedarCrestone's interests. Indeed, CedarCrestone is concerned about the limited scope of the Order as it pertains to discovery material provided by CedarCrestone in its capacity as a non-party subpoena recipient. In its current form, the Order is unclear in many places and lacks adequate protections for non-parties. My sense is that much of the language in the Order was taken from other protective orders entered into between the parties to this litigation and the parties inadvertently failed to modify the language to protect the interests of non-party subpoena recipients.

CedarCrestone remains willing to cooperate with Oracle in responding to Oracle's subpoena. By executing the enclosed Supplemental Stipulation, Oracle will greatly help to facilitate that process.

Sincerely,

Bob Gill

(“CedarCrestone”) hereby stipulate to enter into the following Supplemental Stipulation of Confidentiality (the “Stipulation”) which is designed to supplement the Stipulated Protective Order (the “Order”) signed by the Court in the Action on May 21, 2010. Except to the extent that it contradicts or conflicts with the Order, the Stipulation incorporates the Order by reference and the Plaintiffs and CedarCrestone agree to be bound by the Order.

It is hereby STIPULATED as follows:

1. For the purposes of the Order and this Stipulation, Discovery Material produced by CedarCrestone includes documents produced and testimony provided by CedarCrestone and information derived from such documents and testimony. “Highly Confidential Information” shall include financial or business plans or projections, acquisition offers or expressions of interest; proposed strategic transactions or other business combinations; compensation plans; proprietary technical information and specifications; current or future business and marketing information, plans, and strategies; studies or analyses by internal or outside experts; customer information, data or lists; confidential financial data or results; tax data; confidential information regarding assets and liabilities; valuation analyses; competitive analyses; confidential personnel information; personal financial information; personal information subject to protection under any state law or regulation; or other commercially or personally sensitive or proprietary information. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Highly Confidential Information shall not mean information or documents produced or disclosed that are or become, without violating the Order or this Stipulation, and apart from production or disclosure in connection with the Action, a matter of public record or publicly available by law or otherwise.

2. Counsel for the Plaintiffs may disclose or make available any Discovery Material designated as “Highly Confidential Information – Attorneys’ Eyes Only” and/or any information derived from such Discovery Material only to the following persons:

b. A total of three in-house counsel who are employed by Oracle’s legal department(s) and who are actively acting as legal counsel in connection with the Action, as well as the designated in-house counsels’ necessary secretarial, paralegal or clerical staff, provided
